

Fighting against forced labour and child labour in supply chains report

May 31, 2026

About this Report

Modern slavery refers to forms of contemporary slavery such as forced or compulsory labour, child labour, debt bondage, human trafficking or any other internationally recognized exploitative labour practices. It is a significant global issue impacting different industries, sectors and geographic locations. The Canadian government has committed to preventing and reducing these risks and has established legislation to require certain entities to report on the measures taken in this regard.

Roofmart (Canada) Limited and its affiliates (together, “Roofmart”) recognizes that modern slavery, including forced labour and child labour, is a complex issue that can exist in a variety of forms through global supply chains. Roofmart recognizes it has an important role to play in safeguarding the rights of its workers, advancing its supply chain transparency, and mitigating the risks of modern slavery.

As a company that has been in operation for more than 60 years, Roofmart has remained firmly rooted in its foundational values, entrepreneurial spirit, commitment to quality and to its vision to be a leader in Health and Safety by creating an injury-free safe environment within its industry.

Structures, Activities and Supply Chains

Business and structure

Roofmart is a private Canadian company specializing in the distribution of roofing and siding materials to homeowners, contractors, home builders and developers. Roofmart has a nationwide distribution network and is one of Canada's leading distributors of commercial and residential roofing products. Additionally, it is a major distributor of tools and safety products, equipment, and construction accessories. Roofmart's success is attributed to its dedicated and knowledgeable employees operating in over 50 sales and distribution centres strategically located throughout Canada. By partnering with selected manufacturers, Roofmart efficiently distributes a diverse range of products to meet the evolving needs of its customers.

Roofmart's Corporate Headquarters is in Brampton, Ontario, Canada and is home to its National Support Centre and the executive team. Roofmart serves its customers through a nationwide network of sales and distribution facilities. Roofmart's distribution facilities collaborate to ensure their processes and technologies are aligned. Each division and distribution facility strictly adheres to Roofmart's founding principles and is subject to Roofmart's corporate standards and processes.

Activities

Roofmart partners with North American manufacturers and offers a diverse range of products, including residential and commercial roofing products, siding and cladding products, waterproofing, insulation and building envelope products as well as tools and safety products. Roofmart's offering can be broken down into the following categories:

- Residential roofing: Roofmart offers a complete product selection to suit residential roofing needs including shingles, metal roofing, felt and underlayment, ice and water protection, skylights and hatches etc.
- Commercial roofing: Roofmart offers a wide range of commercial roofing system solutions ranging from modified bitumen systems to thermal insulation.
- Siding and cladding: Roofmart offers exterior building materials used to cover and protect the walls of a structure.
- Building envelope: Roofmart offers high performance wall system products and building protection products that meet all industry waterproofing and insulation standards.
- Tools and specialty equipment: Roofmart offers a variety of standard and specialty tools tailored to the needs of the construction industry, such as safety equipment, hand tools and nail guns.
- Adhesives & Cements: Roofmart offers a variety of accessories including adhesives, sealants, coatings, cements, primers and tapes for all sorts of projects.

Supply Chain

As a wholesale roofing and siding distributor, Roofmart operates as an intermediary between manufacturers and customers in the roofing and siding industry. Through strategic partnerships with manufacturers, Roofmart procures a wide range of standard and specialized roofing products. These products are then distributed and delivered to customers across Canada, catering to the diverse needs of construction and development professionals.

Roofmart's role as a distributor allows it to focus on the efficient procurement and distribution of roofing and siding products plus accessories. Roofmart generally does not engage in the direct sourcing of raw materials. The majority of Roofmart's suppliers are located in Canada and the United States, where strong workers' rights and human rights legislation are enforced.

Values, Policies and Due Diligence Processes in Relation to Forced Labour and Child Labour

Values

At Roofmart, the corporate philosophy, vision and values are embraced by all members of management and employees. Roofmart believes that sharing knowledge helps find ways to improve the business for the benefit of all, integrity defines how it does what it says, long-term thinking frames decision-making to help secure a brighter future, performance ensures that Roofmart will never stop trying to improve, humility creates honest, open and respectful relationships among all, and agility, combined with knowledge, helps Roofmart deliver sound decisions quickly.

Policies and Due Diligence Processes

Roofmart is committed to maintaining the highest standards of ethical conduct in all dealings with employees, customers and suppliers. As such, Roofmart has adopted and implemented several policies and practices that support responsible business practices and human rights, which demonstrate Roofmart's commitment to align with applicable laws, to foster safe work practices and to provide an ethical and respectful working environment.

Roofmart requires that employees, in the execution of their job responsibilities, faithfully observe all legal requirements and adhere to a list of policies which include a Harassment, Discrimination & Violence Prevention Policy, a Business Ethics Policy, an Immigration Law Compliance Policy, and a Diversity, Equity & Inclusion Policy. All employees and contractors are expected to support the Occupational Health and Safety Policies, to comply with all safety and health rules, policies, procedures and programs, and to make safety and health part of their routine.

Roofmart believes in open communication and demonstrates its commitment to integrity and accountability through its Ethics Point, a confidential whistleblower hotline. This hotline provides an avenue for stakeholders to report any illegal, unethical, or unsafe acts.

Going forward, Roofmart will continue to assess and strengthen policies and due diligence processes to ensure Roofmart has appropriate measures in place to identify and respond to potential risks of forced and child labour in its supply chain and to reinforce ethics to ensure that honesty, care, and due diligence are reflected in all procurement activities. In 2026, Roofmart are considering the development of a formal purchasing policy, providing a framework for the procurement practices of goods and services, including respect for human rights and working relationships and conditions. In addition, Roofmart are considering the implementation of a pre-qualification process for suppliers, which would require new suppliers to be evaluated against pre-established criteria and to complete an assessment form identifying the processes and programs they have in place.

Assessing the Risks of Modern Slavery in our Operations and Supply Chain / Components of the Business and Supply Chain that Carry a Risk of Forced Labour and Child Labour

In 2025, the majority of Roofmart's direct suppliers and contractors were located in Canada and the United States where strong labour laws are enforced, therefore we consider the risks of forced and child labour within its direct supply chain to be low. Nevertheless, Roofmart recognizes that due to the complexity of global supply, the risks of forced and child labour may exist in its supply chain. Roofmart is evaluating its supply chain risk assessment strategy to determine where risk may be present. The company is searching for an appropriate long term solution to proactively identify, evaluate, and mitigate risks of modern slavery in its supply chain, beyond the supplier due diligence processes already in place.

To date, Roofmart has not been the subject of any investigation or convicted of any offence under any modern slavery laws.

Measures Taken to Remediate Forced Labour and Child Labour including Remediation of the Loss of Income to the Most Vulnerable Families

Roofmart has not identified any instances of forced or child labour in its activities and supply chains within the financial year ended December 31, 2025, and therefore, no remediation measures were taken. Roofmart acknowledges the importance of ongoing monitoring to ensure that forced and child labour risks remain mitigated within its operations and supply chains.

Training

In 2025, Roofmart partnered with a charitable organization focused on modern slavery mitigation to provide training to its Procurement Agents, as this function was seen as having the greatest potential impact with 100% of active Procurement Agents, 2025 successfully completing the training prescribed program. This training was designed to help our teams:

1. Identify Risks: Understand the signs and indicators of modern slavery within the supply chain.
2. Compliance: Ensure we comply with legal frameworks, such as the Canadian Fighting Against Forced Labour and Child Labour in Supply Chains Act and similar regulations in other regions.
3. Implement Best Practices: Learn effective strategies to assess, monitor, and address risks in supplier relationships.
4. Respond Appropriately: Equip our team with the tools to take swift action in case modern slavery concerns arise.

By enhancing the understanding of modern slavery laws, due diligence processes, and responsible sourcing strategies, Roofmart empowers its teams to make informed decisions that uphold human rights and corporate integrity. Through this initiative, Roofmart reinforces its commitment to ethical procurement and driving positive change across its supply chain.

Assessing Effectiveness

The strongest indicator of effectiveness is the continued circumstance that Roofmart has not been the subject of any investigation or convicted of any offence under any modern slavery laws. To ensure this is maintained, internal policies, procedures and training will continue to be monitored, maintained and required.
